Purpose: The Outstanding Teaching Assistant Awards recognize College of Engineering Graduate Assistants for their outstanding contributions to the College’s teaching mission. These awards were established to reward graduate assistants whose inspiration and dedication to student learning are truly significant.

Award: The name of the award is “NUCOE Outstanding Teaching Assistant Award.”

Eligibility: To be eligible for nomination, a graduate student must have served as a teaching assistant for at least two semesters within the last two academic years (Fall 2010 through and including Spring 2012). Students who received the University Level Teaching Award are not eligible for the NUCOE Award in the same year.

Nominations: Students, staff, and faculty members are eligible to nominate a graduate student for this award. All nominations must be sent by the department chair or program director to the Graduate School of Engineering. A maximum of two students per program may be nominated. Nomination packets are to include the following:

- A completed nomination form (attached).
- A letter of support from the department chair or program director, if other than the nominator.
- A summary of the effectiveness of the nominee’s involvement in instructional activities (maximum 2 pages).
- Supporting letter(s) from teaching supervisor(s).

Deadline: Nominations must be submitted to the Graduate School (j.plaza@neu.edu) by Monday April 23, 2012.

Selection: Selections will be made by a committee appointed chaired by the Associate Dean for Research and Graduate. Recipients of the 2012 NUCOE Outstanding Graduate Student Awards and the 2012 University-level Outstanding Graduate Student Awards will be recognized at the May 3, 2012 COE Graduate Student Graduation Reception.
