Maria Cecilia Zea "Disclosure of HIV-Positive Status Among Latino Gay and Bisexual Men"
(Feb 2005)

Maria Cecilia Zea is a Professor of Psychology at the Department of Psychology at George Washington University. Her research interests include behavioral aspects of HIV/AIDS among Latinos and acculturation issues among immigrants. She has published extensively in the area of ethnic minority psychology and on HIV/AIDS. She co-edited a book on Psychological Interventions and Research with Latino Populations, and a Special Issue of Cultural Diversity and Ethnic Minority Psychology on Lesbian, Gay, and Bisexual Racial and Ethnic Minority Individuals. Dr. Zea is the Principal Investigator of two grants funded by the National Institute of Mental Health and the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, and co-investigator of several grants. Dr. Zea is a member of the Behavioral and Social Consequences of HIV/AIDS Study Section from the Center for Scientific Review at the National Institutes of Health and of the University of California University-wide AIDS Research Program. Dr. Zea received an award for distinguished scientific contribution from the American Psychological Association (APA), she is an APA Fellow, an advisor to the APA Minority Fellowship Program, and an Associate Editor of Cultural Diversity and Ethnic Minority Psychology.