The Northeastern University Law Journal will host a symposium to discuss and analyze the evolving legal implications of school bullying. David Sullivan, District Attorney for the Northwestern District of Massachusetts, and Gary Mayerson, lead counsel for the plaintiffs in the recent case of TK v. New York City Department of Education, will each deliver a keynote address. Five panels will take a more in-depth look at specific aspects of the school bullying debate. The panel topics will include Criminalizing School Bullying, Hazing in Higher Education, and Cyberbullying and the First Amendment.

The event promises to be an engaging and educational experience. Don’t miss this opportunity to hear a number of legal experts talk about the problem of school bullying and what can be done about it.

Where: Northeastern University School of Law
When: March 30, 2012
   Registration begins at 8:30 am
   Welcoming remarks start at 9:30 am
RSVP: Please register for this important event at www.nulj.org

Presented by
Northeastern University
Law Journal

THE EVOLVING LEGAL IMPLICATIONS
OF SCHOOL BULLYING