Jaribu Hill is founder and executive director of the Mississippi Workers’ Center for Human Rights. She is a human rights attorney, veteran community organizer, international human rights spokesperson and a frequent writer and commentator on human rights themes.

Hill is the founder of the Southern Human Rights Organizers’ Conference as well as the Fannie Lou Hamer Roundtable and CUNY Law School’s Mississippi Project. As former director of the southern regional office of the Center for Constitutional Rights, Hill won an important judgment against the Christian Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. She has coordinated cutting-edge litigation in the areas of housing as a human right and racially hostile work environments.

Hill’s scholarly works are featured in numerous publications including Black Scholar; National Black Law Journal; and Southern University Law Review. She is co-author of The Black College Guide and author of Knowledge is Power—A Know Your Rights Manual. She is the recipient of numerous awards and accolades, including the coveted Gloria Award. Hill is a former Skadden Fellow and a former Thurgood Marshall Fellow. She is a former municipal judge for Hollandale, Mississippi, and currently serves as a Special Master for Mental Commitments for Washington County Chancery Court.

COMMUNITY LECTURE  Monday, September 23, 2019, noon  240 Dockser Hall
Back in the Day is Today: Continued Forms of Race Discrimination in Workplaces

ROUNDTABLE  Wednesday, September 25, 2019, noon  240 Dockser Hall
Sexual Harassment in Low-Wage Workplaces: Demystifying the Law

The Daynard Public Interest Visiting Fellows Program brings distinguished public interest practitioners to campus each academic year for a three-day visit. The fellows serve as role models for students, demonstrating how legal skills can be used effectively and creatively to make the world a better place. This vibrant program was established in 2004 through the generosity of Professor Richard A. Daynard, president of the law school’s Public Health Advocacy Institute, and his wife, Carol Iskols Daynard.

Co-sponsored by the Center for Public Interest Advocacy and Collaboration
Winter 2020 Daynard Public Interest Visiting Fellow

CHAUMTOLI HUQ ’97
Founder/Editor, Law@theMargins;
Associate Professor of Law, CUNY School of Law

February 3-5, 2020